- 1 cup butter, softened at room temperature
- 1/2 cup packed light brown sugar
- 1 cup white sugar
- 2 eggs and 1 yolk
- 1 teaspoon mint extract

Directions

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Spray two baking sheet trays with non stick or line with parchment paper.

While still beating the butter and sugar slowly add the egg mixture, stopping to scrape down the sides from time to time to make sure it is well mixed. Add half of the flour mixture and mix on low until almost combined. Add the remaining flour mixture and chocolate chunks and mix until just combined.
4. Scoop out into 2 ounce sized cookies, flatten slightly, and bake for 12 minutes or until the edges are golden brown and the middle is soft. Allow to cool for 5 minutes before serving.

Why Assisted Living Communities are the “In Thing” for the Senior set.

- SAFETY. Just the fact that there are other people around makes communal living safer than being alone in a house. Also, Most assisted living (AL) facilities have some type of alert system. If a community member has an emergency or needs assistance, they can summon assistance with the touch of a button.
- MEALS. In AL , meals are provided and they offer many choices of food. Many communities have kitchenettes in their rooms. Members have the option of cooking some meals in their apartments of the choose. However the biggest plus may be that people have company to eat with and they don't have to do dishes afterwards.
- TRANSPORTATION. Many AL's provide group transportation for outings and community events. Also, they can generally arrange transportation for members who need to get to a medical appointment.
- LESS WORRY. Community members don't have to worry about repairs and upkeep, yard maintenance or snow removal and all else that comes with home ownership.
- SOCIIALIZATION. Socialization is possibly the most import reason why a lot of Seniors who insist that they will not like AL end up thriving. Socialization is one way to stave off Dementia, Depression and Despair. Seniors need peers, they need to be around others who share common attitudes, interests, and goals. They play cards, sing, exercise, reminisce, craft and generally have a good time!

I would like to believe that AL's help Seniors to be healthier by intervening early to prevent illness or injuries that would require long term nursing care and /or hospital admissions. I do know that AL's contribute to quality of life, which is by far the most enticing reason for a Senior to move . Many times a move to AL can be just the thing to give a Senior a new outlook on life!

ARLINGTON PLACE RETIREMENT COMMUNITY RECEIVES DEFICIENCY-FREE SURVEY FROM STATE

On January 8th, 2017, the Iowa Department of Inspections and Appeals (DIA), visited Arlington Place, to complete a monitoring visit. These visits are conducted once every two years and serve to review the practices and procedures of the Assisted Living Program to ensure regulatory compliance.
